

Advising is...

Advising is a decision-making process through which students, in consultation with staff and faculty, explore academic, career, and personal goals and identify campus and community resources to support their success.

Our Mission

UC Berkeley's advising community provides advising from recruitment to graduation and helps equip students with the tools and support to benefit from a research university rich in services and opportunities.

Our Vision

Advising fosters the academic achievement, intellectual curiosity, personal discovery and growth of students as they develop into well-rounded global citizens and leaders.

Berkeley advisors help students discover, grow and achieve.

The Advising Council developed this Advising Framework and other tools and resources with broad input from the campus community. Learn more at advisingmatters.berkeley.edu
